

INTERMEDIATES DOWN U. OF M. RUGBY SQUAD

Good Playing by McGill
Backfield

SCORE 18 to 0

Team May Play Off in Toronto or Kingston

McGill Intermediates made a clean sweep of the University of Montreal at the Stadium yesterday afternoon, scoring three touches, one convert and two rouses. The game was played on a muddy field but fortunately the rain held off. The U. of M. were a much heavier team and were able to block most of the intermediate backs. The intermediate line was not clipping as well as they might. Towards the end of the game the Frenchmen showed signs of wear and tear and positions on the bench seemed in demand. Desy, kicking for his team, was not given very good protection on and it was a sure sign of a kick when he implored his line to hold for "just one second."

The Intermediates are now in good position to win the league, having downed Loyola last week. Their next game is against Loyola and if they win again it is practically certain that they will go to Toronto or Kingston for the play-off.

The play—
First quarter
McGill won the toss and U. of M. kicked into the wind. Taylor caught and returned a long low ball which bounced dangerously near the U. of M. touch line, before it was covered by Desy. U. of M. tried to kick out on their first two downs but each time were held back. On the third Desy kicked and the Frenchmen were given a breather while McGill tried back at centre field.

On the third down Arnold kicked. Lafrance in the backfield muffed the catch and Tommy rushing through for his own kick picked up the ball and ran twenty yards for a touch—the first of the game and the first of the way, of the McGill Intermediate season.

After the play Lafrance was discovered "kicked out" and was replaced by Bourget. Taylor kicked the convert and the ball sailed through the bars, made the score McGill 6 U. of M. 0.

U. of M. on the next few plays tried end runs around McGill's left. Gendron carrying the ball succeeded in making yards. U. of M. lost the ball by a fumble on McGill's thirty yard line. On the next down McGill tried an end run around the left. Arnold received the ball and carried it forty yards. On the U. of M. twenty yard line he was tackled and forced to pass to Grassick. But the pass was forward and U. of M. were again saved. The Frenchmen tried to kick out of their territory but Tucker broke through and blocked.

It was now McGill's down on U. of M.'s thirty yard line. Taylor kicked to Desy who fumbled and footed the ball as a last resort. Jack Little running through nailed the ball and went over for touch number two. Taylor failed to convert and the score was U. of M. 0 McGill 11.

Desy kicked off. He first went over the side line. His second was a good kick and Grassick caught and passed to Taylor who returned. McGill soon had the ball at the U. of M. end of the field and the Frenchmen were forced to kick. Mellen was blocking Desy's kicks to good advantage, and this was very demoralizing to the visitors.

Score U. of M. 0 McGill 11
Second quarter
Grassick, carrying the ball, had his ankle wrenched and was replaced by Wallace. The Intermediates using the conference plays, made gains. U. of M. were very lucky in their recovery of fumbles in one case when Pugh blocked a kick the ball bounced back into the surprise Desy's arms.

At half time the score was still U. of M. 0 McGill 11.

Third quarter
In this period Grassick, Arnold and Taylor started some neat backfield work catching and passing generally for twenty yards or more.

With McGill on the U. of M. fifty yard line Taylor kicked a long one which Desy caught behind his line. Jack Little tackled him and added a rouse. The score U. of M. 0—McGill 12.

On the U. of M. fifteen yard line Jerry Altimus tried an end run around the right. He almost reached the line but stumbled and dropped the ball. U. of M. by kicking cleared out of the danger zone but Pugh by a splendid run carried it back. At three-quarter time the score was U. of M. 0—McGill 12.

Last Quarter
McGill launched an onslaught, bucking their way down the field. Finally Bourget went over for a touch—the best earned of the game. Taylor failed to convert and the score was U. of M. 0—McGill 17.

Both teams were shaking off with the McGill squad making had fumbles. Mellen saved several by quick covering. On end runs McGill fumbled three plays all of which were lucky in centre field. The ball reached Altimus alright but he was passing badly—once into Lovasac's hands. Altimus was holding the ball too long and passing after being tackled.

The last play of the game was spectacular and exciting. U. of M. had the ball on their thirty yard line. Abbotnick kicked. Parsons broke through, blocked the kick and dribbled the ball almost to the touch line before the Frenchmen coming pell mell caught up to him. He covered the ball and Taylor kicked a rouse.

The final score was U. of M. 0 McGill 18.

THE GOLDEN RULES

I'm an innocent frosh who came to school
To live and abide by the Golden Rule,
To do to those what is done to me
But there's something wrong, it's plain to see.
It's better to give than it is to receive
And that's why I hesitate here to grieve,
To do this thing is what I crave,
But it ain't being done these hectic days.
I'd love to use my pent up wrath
To soak the sophisticated satisfied soph,
To take his hide and mop the floor,
But it ain't being done these days no more.
They think we're dumb but we know best;
We're just the butt of a cruel, cruel jest.
We hate to be treated like simple fools,
So give us the Golden—not the Freshman Rules.
—F. A. B.

SAID THE FRESHMAN

Said the Freshman to the Sophomore, "Let me be!
You have torn in shreds my hat.
Your assiduous attention worries me!
You have ruined my left shoe spat
And have nearly spoiled my temper—can't you see?
You were once as green yourself,
you can't deny;
You were hustled, humped, and hammered 'e'en as I;
And I cannot understand
Why you heed no reprimand.
But subdue my every simple sound or sigh."

PROF. M. SCANTHAIR UNEARTHS DOCUMENT

The Archaeological Department of this university, under the skilled direction of Doctor Scanthair, have discovered an ancient pamphlet dating back to B. C. 453, which translated by the university board of interpreters, reads as follows:

FRESHMAN RULES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF STONEHENGE

Drawn up by the Student's Council under the direction of Mr. Whatta Flinthard.

- 1 All freshmen shall carry a green battle-axe around with them, and at the command of the upperclassmen, must do battle with each other.
- 2 All freshmen must carry with them a good-sized bear, to give to a sophomore if he feels like a feast.
- 3 Cave-man lovemaking is strictly taboo amongst freshmen.
- 4 All freshmen must report to Coach Killum, in order to be instructed in the art of battle-axeing, to be prepared to do the requisite amount of slaughter should our team be beaten in the first match.
- 5 The freshman dress must be of green fur. Shoulder supports are prohibited—belts must be used.
- 6 Every freshman must sing at the command of his superior. If he doesn't, one of his teeth must be extracted.

The rest of the manuscript is lost, but Dr. Scanthair is hot on its trail, and may have it in time for the next freshman issue.

Big Practice For Soccer Men To-Day

Teams listed below chosen from University players will turn out for a practice game this afternoon. Unfortunately the game scheduled with the men from the S. S. Montclair has been cancelled, owing to their inability to secure leave from the ship yesterday.

All players, whether their names are listed or not, will be expected to turn out, as this afternoon's play will determine the men to constitute the eleven touring the States this week-end.

Recent reports indicate Springfield as McGill's firm opponent. They are liable to prove a strong team as they recently defeated a rival college by the score of 10-0.

Immediately following the practice all players chosen to make the trip south are requested to meet in Mulson's Hall for a few minutes.
A Team:—Amaron, McLeod, Stephenson, Giovanni, Arndale, Helmig.

FRESH-SOPH DANCE TICKETS ON SALE

Freddie Gross's Six-piece Orchestra to Play

Tickets for next Friday's Freshman-Sophomore dance will go on sale at the Union Ticket Shop today at once. Although the dance is primarily a Freshman-Sophomore affair, tickets will be sold to a limited number of upper class students as well as to those in the first and second years.

Freddie Gross's six-piece orchestra has been engaged to play at this first dance of the University year. Catering will be handled by Florio.

The dance will start at eight-thirty, and since it is the desire of the committee in charge to fully comply with university regulations it will close promptly at one.

Tickets will be two dollars.

ALIEN PHILOLOGICAL CIRCLE STAGES UNION

Owing to a severe rainstorm and a blizzard, the meeting of the Gallician Anarchist Society last p.m. was an enormous success. The huge crowds that stormed the basement of the Union, were kept back only by the strenuous efforts of the Dismounted Police of Plumbing '52. In all, two individuals were present, both of no mean repute.

The president who was elected by an overwhelming majority, was von Sebastopolopolis Polcheyvisky, a young Dalmatian, who, although a humble Freshman, is becoming disrespected in professional circles, as an ineffectual Senior.

We are pleased to note that the audience was quite cosmopolitan, whose high and lofty ambitions encourage him to become a sub on the intercollegiate Street Cleaning team of Derval University. At present, although quite unfamiliar with the English language, he is a step-cousin to the great grandson of the president of Bottelochampagne.

After the brilliant but unscintillating speaker of the evening delivered his philosophical address on the growth of latin grammars in Rhodocia, it was discovered that both distinguished members of the audience were secure in their rhapsodic slumbers.

On adjoining the meeting, a general cheer was given for the Trans-Siberian Lumberjacks L. W. W. and the assembly, tacitly but hastily made their exit before the arrival of the Homo Marines.

HISTORY ONE

How can I think of the legions
Swinging down by the Pontic shore
Or the mighty Macedon an
Leading on his ranks to war,
When I'm thinking of two sparkling eyes,
Two glancing, dancing, darkling eyes,
And once I think upon them, why
I think upon no more!
How the pyramids were builded is related
In a fascinating story of the past
And I read the various facts as they are stated
But the impression that they make,
It doesn't last.
For I begin thinking of a flaming braid
Of red
A pirate hand across a bobbed haired head
And to a bobbed haired little one my Thoughts are awfully led Hannibal driving down from the north
Is forgotten as I think
Of how she poured the coffee forth
And gave to me to drink,
With a bit of a smile in her eyes, on her lips
While my heart skipped just a half-dozen skips
Do you wonder my memory from Hannibal slips?
Caesar and Cyrus where are they
And their flights and their marches of yesterday?
Gone long ago the history books tell Mighty and great and strong, they fell—
And I forget them—well, if they knew
The bobbed haired little girl I do
Mayhap they'd forget their battles too!

MAKING BOTH ENDS MEET, A Poem.

The baby rolls upon the floor,
Kicks up his tiny feet,
And pokes his toes into his mouth,
Thus making both ends meet.
The dog attached to an old tin-can
Goes howling down the street,
And then he madly bites his tail,
Thus making both ends meet.
The butcher slays the pensive pig,
Cuts off his ears and feet
And grinds them in a sausage big,
Thus making both ends meet.
The farmer coops his ducks and hens,
Feeds them with corn and wheat,
The means must justify the end,
Thus making both ends meet.

GORDIE HUGHES IN GENERAL HOSPITAL

Gordie Hughes is in the Montreal General Hospital with a badly twisted knee—an old hurt of two seasons ago which put him out of the game early in the play on Saturday. It is hoped that Gordie will be out in time for the game with Varsity on Nov. the 7th.

Gordie will be missed by the team when they go up to play Queens, when his tackling would have been so valuable.

THE TRAGEDY

It was the white, white anguish
Of her face that held him when he would have gone away. He turned again and caught the nerveless fingers which he had just dropped.
But she snatched them away as if she had touched burning coals and edged away from him still with that desperate pleading in her eyes. Trembling, she grasped the doorknob with one quivering hand, and then she paused, tense and white-lipped—"O my only, only would!" she whispered pitifully, and with that she slipped out,
closing the door tightly behind her. And the brute stood there smoking nonchalantly; he had refused to let the poor girl have his notes for the lecture she missed the day she had the toothache.

A CORRECTION HAROLD LLOYD NOT A FRESHY

This being the Green Issue it is only just to clear the good name of the Freshmen. Yesterday—Gridiron Gus writing of the "affair" at half time blamed the Freshmen. The Daily on good authority states that Harold Lloyd and his team mates were Sophomores.

THE WANDERER'S NIGHT SONG

A Translation
Among the mountain-tops
Hushed are the firs;
Amid the foliage
Not a breath stirs
Nor any sound,
Each bird in the valley has sought
its own nest,
Wanderer, rest
Till peace in the dawning
You, too, have found.

U. of M. DEFAULT TO JUNIORS

The Junior team all turned out at the Stadium today for their game with the University of Montreal—but the Frenchmen failed to appear. Through some misarrangement the Intermediates were short of subs so Reed, Weir and Clarke were put on the intermediate bench.

CERCLE HELD INITIAL MEETING LAST EVENING

Cercle Francais Had Enthusiastic Gathering

TO HOLD DEBATES

Members of Society Gave
Short and Interesting
Speeches

The opening meeting of the Cercle Francais was held last night in the Music Room of The Union. The turnout was very good—the Arts Freshmen showing keen interest, over fifty students being present. The meeting was opened with a hearty welcome from the President D. Dainow. The aim of the Cercle; was explained to newcomers—the activities of the past year were reviewed, and an attempt was made to look into the coming year. The Cercle is a meeting place for all those interested in the French language, and also a place where all meet on the same terms, students and professors alike.

The Honorary President, Prof. R. Du Rouse gave a short address in which he exhorted every member to make the most of the opportunities offered by the Cercle. The classes in the French Department of McGill University have swelled so considerably that the Department finds it impossible to give each student an adequate amount of practice in speaking the French language. For anyone living in the province of Quebec the necessity of having a good knowledge of French is apparent, and the place to get it is at the Cercle. Prof. Du Rouse also suggested that the Cercle could get special prices at French plays and it would be a fine idea to arrange such Theatre Nights for the group.

Dr. Villard next addressed the meeting, and strongly advised every student to learn the French language—because the knowledge of more than one tongue makes a man more accomplished.

Messrs. Massac and Roche contributed a few entertaining words to the meeting and by that time the formality of the gathering had vanished. Every one present felt at ease and was given the opportunity to introduce himself to the rest in few words.

Early in the meeting it was discovered that the Secretary Mousseau was not at College making it necessary to elect a new man. The position will be filled by Casgrain.

Monday was the night chosen for the Cercle meetings. It was decided to have a meeting every week during the first term, and every two weeks in the second term. The next is to be held on Monday, October 26th, when the program will be especially interesting. A debate was also arranged for the second meeting and a very successful year is anticipated.

Arts and Commerce were well represented and it is hoped that the Law students will make a better showing at the next meeting. It was rather surprising to notice the scarcity of the Law students at such a gathering.

Soph: "Swell perfume your girl was wearing wasn't it?"
Frosh: "Yes"
Soph: "Dicks?"
Frosh: "None of your darn business."

Prof: "Give me a definition of steam."
Frosh: "Water gone crazy with the heat."
Sadler: "Mac dear, what is the shape of a kiss?"
Max: "I dunno, Give me one and we'll call it square."

THE CRIES OF THE YEARLINGS (With apologies).

"Wherefore are ye weeping, oh my brothers!
Ere the sorrows come with tests?
What is it that so pitilessly smotherers
All your former joys and zests?
The bright sun is sparkling in the azure,
The filmy clouds stir softly in their rest,
Autumnal tones impart a lasting pleasure,
And all the outdoor world is at its best;
But your sweet young faces, oh my brothers,
They are clouded gloomily!
Oh the contrast to the cheery mien of your Superiors, hapless lads, is sad to see!"

"Can you question us in face of this, our sorrow,
Why our brows are steeped in woe?
The sophomores have wrought that each to-morrow
Shall find them even yet more so.
Our coats we must not wear, tho' wind be blowing,
Our feet we rheumatize without our socks,
Our throats are hoarse with song, and each while knowing
A bilious patch is parched upon our locks:
Before this heavy weight of sorrows, oh my sisters,
Do you ask us why we're found
In so woebegone a guise where all is Beauty, on our verdant campus ground?"

TEMPORA MUTANTUR

Today the "Daily" brings forth the Freshman Issue, reserved as far as possible for news of the First-Year men. And with its green ink, the paper marks the change that transforms several hundreds of McGill undergraduates from mere "Frosh" into the "Class of '29."

Times change. Not so very long ago, Freshmen were not considered true members of the University until their first year final examinations were successfully passed. Prior to this happy event, they were mere probationers, at the beck and call of those superior beings, the full-fledged undergraduates.

Then, too, there were initiations of a violent and humiliating kind. The first year men were considered of little import, meet to be bullied, and ignorant of all the requirements that went to make the undergraduates. Accordingly, the welcoming ceremonies were frequent and lasting, and often of a degrading nature. These at length exceeded even the wide bounds of tradition, and public opinion was aroused against the practice.

But now, these things are little more than a memory. Initiation is still in use. This is as it should be. As a means of promoting class comradeship, and therefore college spirit, as an interesting survival of mediaeval university life, and as a source of amusement to all concerned, it has held its valuable place in modern college life, but under the strictest supervision of the student authorities. The Freshman is no longer considered incapable of intelligent thought or action. He may be a little strange to the ways and customs of his new world, but it is remembered that this is but natural, and that the newcomer is entitled almost at once to a recognized and unrestricted place in the University.

In some ways, however, his sphere of action has been limited by the passing years. For instance, in many colleges, there is in force the Freshman Rule, by which a first year man is not allowed to play on the athletic teams of his university. But this ruling, designed to eliminate "ringers" from sport, is not framed to restrict the actions of freshmen so much as to elevate sport, and promote better feeling among competing colleges.

The Freshman to-day has a much more pleasant existence than his father or elder brother. No longer is he despised merely because of his juniority in university life, but he is respected as the senior and undergraduate leader of the future.

SPORTSMANSHIP—AN EDITORIAL BY A FRESHETTE

Most people of to-day believe that the greatest tribute anyone can pay them is to call them, "good sports." Unfortunately, this expression is used very lightly on occasion. For instance, a man who has plenty of money and is willing to spend it is called a good sport. Is this all that these words imply? Certainly not. Sportsmanship means more than that. It means first and foremost "playing the game" under all and any circumstances.

"'Tis easy enough to be pleasant

When life goes on like a song;

But the man worth while

Is the man with a smile

When everything goes dead wrong."

To be more specific if you have been nominated in class elections and someone else was chosen for the office, do not bear your opponents any grudge; be a sport about it. Of course, no one expects you to feel particularly cheerful when, for instance, someone else has won the scholarship you have been trying for. But then, if you show your disappointment too markedly your friend will surely tell you to "take it like a sport."

Most athletes would rather be called poor players than poor losers. This is the spirit which urges them to keep on running, even if they are sure to lose the race. This was the spirit which caused Cyrano de Bergerac to cry out, "What do you say? That it is no use! But one does not fight because there is hope of winning. It is far finer to fight when it is no use!" This, in short, is the very essence of true sportsmanship.

A FABLE

Two freshmen were walking through the Campus grounds one day. It was a nice day. The autumn leaves were on the ground but that has nothing to do with the story so I will start again. Two freshmen were walking through the Campus grounds one day, or maybe it was two days. To be sure it was not a week. One freshman said, "It's a—of a life," and the other freshman answered in true freshman style "It sure is." And so it came to pass that they walked on with green heads bowed beneath the blue sky. A most beautiful colour scheme. But there did cross their path two ignorant Sophs who thought themselves as all Sophs do, highly and completely educated. The freshmen covered as they had been taught and their legs did shake beneath them but their hearts hollered and their breath did steam. "O Frosh!" the Sophs did cry, "lift up your heads and sing, so that you may be heard for miles and miles and miles. So the Frosh did lift up their heads and did sing so that they were heard for miles and miles and miles and all the world did shake and the stars and the moon did fall to their feet. Buildings swayed and fell crashing to the ground until finally the ancient Physics Building did topple over on top of the two Sophs. And only then did the two Frosh cease singing and the world ceased to shake. Then did they light cigarettes with a star and proceeded walking through the Campus grounds as they were in the beginning.

—F. A. B.

Soph: "Did you ever kiss a girl when she wasn't expecting it?"
Frosh: "I doubt it!"
Everything comes to him who waits, said the frosh as he stroked his per ilp.

GYMNASTS TO OPEN SEASON MONDAY NEXT

Vacancies to be Filled on Intercollegiate Team

MEET IN MONTREAL

Freshmen and Newcomers Invited to Turn Out

The first practice of the McGill Gymnastic Club will be held in the High School of Montreal gymnasium on Monday next at 5 p.m. Such was the decision arrived at, when the club held its first meeting, yesterday afternoon in the Union.

As last year's intercollegiate team has been cut in half by graduation, anyone with the slightest experience has a chance to make the team, providing he comes to the practices. The club will work every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and there will be either Mr. Hay Findlay, the coach, or some member of last year's team to aid, and give advice. The championship was won from Toronto last year in Toronto, and there is no reason why it should not be kept in Montreal this year.

It was moved and seconded that the executive write to Toronto and make arrangements to hold the intercollegiate meet on the third Saturday of March instead of the first, so as not to conflict with the Alma Mater dance or the Red and White Revue.

A city championship meet will be arranged, if possible, with the Y. M. C. A., M. A. A. A., and others, in order to have the team work in public, before competing with Toronto. A joint exhibition with the M. S. P. E., will be held for the same purpose. It is also possible that a team representing McGill, will go to Dartmouth sometime after the New Year. The club is at present communicating with the Americans towards this end.

The question of the purchase of a new bar to be erected in the farther end of the High School gymnasium was brought up. The bar now in use interferes with the basketball teams, and it would be to the advantage of both clubs, if a new arrangement could be made. The matter is to be taken before the Athletic Board.

The meeting was well attended, both by last year's members and a goodly number of newcomers. It was presided over by Ross Keene, the manager, who stressed the point that there were several vacancies on the team, open to ambitious freshmen. A record year is anticipated, and to make this a certainty a full membership is required. Beginning next week, all first and second year men are obliged to do two hours physical training a week. The gym club is a pleasant and beneficial way of obtaining the required attendance.

INTER NOS.

(Between Ourselves).

My sweetheart's gone to the movies
To the palace of music and bliss.
Where the orchestra thunders with rapture
While the flickering lovers kiss.

Yes, she's gone with another
(How odd that it shouldn't be I)
To hold her dear hand when there's danger
Or the orchestra soba "Traumera."

Now the syncopating orchestra
Watching the "Weekly fashion parade"
Or perhaps pouting her pretty face
When the hero seems delayed.

Now the syncopating orchestra
Is jazzing a wonderful tune,
And her toes are all a-quiver
(She hopes to be dancing soon).

Oh yes she's gone to the movies
Were it not for this rhyme I'd have missed her
Oh! and I might have been horribly jealous
Only, she's gone with her sister.

THE POET.

I seized my pen, I seized my book—
Went hurrying for a shady nook,
I climbed a fence and jumped a stream,
My mind was crowded with my theme;
I crossed a field, I found some trees
That lent a shade, a blust'ry breeze.
I rumpled up my flaming hair,
I flung my arms out to the air!
Then sat I down upon a stump
(It mattered not I looked a gump!)
For with ambition I was fired,
At last, at last, I'd been inspired!
I tore a sheet in feverish haste
And swiftly on my knee it placed,
And then I all my thoughts let fly—
And, gosh, darn, heck! my pen was dry!!!

Dear Sir:—Last term it was decided to introduce two foreign institutions into McGill. They are, namely, the Scarlet Key Society, and a Lord Rector.

The Students' Council decided to suppress the Literary Supplement, this decision being reached at secretly. Will we wake up one morning to find out that McGill does not need a Lord Rector? I think that a little information on this subject would be gratifying to the students.

Now for private grievances. That voting away his natural privilege and his agreeable duty. They want us to send a body of "picked" men to meet the visitors, men who may not have the slightest interest in or knowledge of the activity which has brought these visitors to our gates. This we are told, is "organization".

It may be "organization", Mr. Editor, but is it not hospitality. The Scarlet Key Society must be suppressed.

The new suggestion is not only fundamentally wrong in principle; it is also a foreign importation which can only be purchased at the expense of something our own and Canadian. The origin of the idea does not affect my argument—although as a matter of fact the idea comes from a rather small New England University of no special note, and not possessing one quarter McGill's reputation or standing.

I have no special objection to American ideas as such, but I do most strongly object to being asked to give up a perfectly good Canadian idea and to substitute an idea of whatever other country, for it.

If McGill's hospitality is in a parlous state (and we have Mr. Van Wagner's assertion that it is not) the remedy is to be sought by improving the present system, not by looking over our frontiers for something new. The Scarlet Key Society, Mr. Editor must be suppressed.

Yours faithfully,

F. R. SCOTT

The Editor:

McGill Daily.

Dear Sir: Judging from letters and articles which have recently appeared in The Daily, the question of the Scarlet Key Society seems to be causing some discussion. This shows some interest in the question at least, and is therefore good.

May I therefore add a few points which occur to me after two years experience with the Hockey Team.

As guests playing in strange cities we noticed two things about our hosts: their conduct during the game and their reception and entertainment of us, their guests. In most cases this latter remains a negative quality in our recollections.

And yet, as hosts, we were guilty of the same faults, which seemed so evident to us from the other side of the fence. Our efforts to entertain the visiting Hockey Teams were spasmodic, unorganized, inefficient, and what is worst of all, unofficial. When teams from Toronto, Queen's and R.M.C. return to Montreal year after year, they are almost as much at home as we are. But the policy of branching out into International Athletics which the Athletic Board is encouraging now demands a change of system on the part of the students. From a purely commercial viewpoint McGill will be greatly benefited by the activity of the Scarlet Key Society in the matter of advertising.

The idea seems to have come from Dartmouth, where their hospitality has become universally famous in a few short years. As Mr. Van Wagner is reported to have said, conditions in Montreal and Hanover are not comparable, and if we do have such a thing as a Scarlet Key Society, it must be an original organization to meet our particular demands in this city.

I have spoken from the viewpoint of athletics alone, the only one upon which I am qualified, but it has been pointed out by others that the work of the proposed Scarlet Key Society should also embrace the supervision of all freshmen activities, such as ushering at Football Games; reception and entertainment of all visitors within our gates, and any other duties as yet unclassified.

The Scarlet Key Society is properly organized, would, in my humble opinion tend towards cohesion of at present loosely held together college units and systems. It will lead to a McGill unity and cannot, I think, be criticised as being another sectional club.

All of which I respectfully submit to my fellow students through these columns, for thought before the Student Meeting on Wednesday.

It is McGill
It is ze universite which rest upon ze hill,

And when I come I dress myself in clothes which are elite
But now I have to go about exposing both my feet

CHORUS

McGill! McGill!
She rest upon ze hill
And when nobody cheer her—well

I WILL, I WILL, I WILL!

Verse Two.
When I think of her tradition my heart it overflow
But I forget it when I have to make noise like o'seau,
I reverence her knowledge, and I love
her mighty lore,
But when professeur yells at me I lose all my amour.

Verse three.
When I am told at Molson Hall, I do not feel so gay—
That I will have to exercise in suit of negligee
And when I think of all these things
't makes me feel so ill
But I feel better when I eat at L'Union McGill.

Verse four
And also when I read ze news of last informal dance
Ze prospects of a merry time my spirits do advance
For an enterprising freshman never popular can be,
Unless he show he's very good at dancing with ten filles.

Verse five
I feel that as one freshman I should help along my class
And not like my fellows who are Often silly ass—
And when they talk in library I do not like 't well,
I think I'll go and tell my woes to Monsieur Gerhardt L.

Verse six.
If we are truly freshmans we should help our team to win
By joining with ze hunters club and make beaucoup de din.
And if we cannot rugby play, we all should do our best
To learn ze art of boxe or lutte, or fencing or ze chess.

me in offering sincere congratulation to the Students' Council on the decision to halve the Saturday's Daily and devote the suppressed portion to the Literary Supplement. It seemed to me that they have acted with a golly and common sense. They have shown that they are not afraid to acknowledge a mistake—a piece of larger-mindedness, of which not many individuals, and scarcely any corporate bodies, are capable.

I want further to draw attention to the fact that McGill has to thank Mr. Theodore Harris, for originating the scheme which has been adopted as a basis for the solution of our difficultes. Acute observation during long services on the staff of the Daily has enabled him to hit upon an altogether brilliant idea. The change in Mr. Harris' original suggest on though saves less money, the technical difficulty as to whether a paper not published on Saturday, may nevertheless call itself a Daily. I remain Mr. Editor.

Yours quite cheerfully
A. P. RUSHTON COULBORN

We should imagine that these so-called buxom beauties who skip a measure or two to reduce would want to skip alone rather than in company as the Lantern has suggested. In company, they might laugh and grow fat. They might combine the processes, through one buxom skipper to one lean laughter.

TWEET, TWEET.

"Say boy have you ever heard of that place they call McGill," said Si as he sat down and lit his pipe with the rest of his juvenile boy friends whose ages ranged from seventy to one hundred years of age. The rest of the boys who had been brought up in the distant town of Westmount where men are men and—? said that they had not heard of the place but that they would all like to hear of his experiences and what he saw when he was passing there the last time he was in the city.

"Well," said Si as he settled back in his soap box "You all may have seen some foolish things in your day but them young shavers what go to that McGill Club sure the dumbest things you ever saw in your life. Why I had not been standing in front of the gates more than two minutes when up walks a lad and starts to roll up his trousers and roll down his socks and there he was without even his flannel underwear on walking up the middle of the road in all the mud and slush as proud as a pauper with a little green spot on his head. But gosh that was not the thing that made me most mad but in was another guy what was carrying his coat on a hanger and when he saw me what does he do but put his thumb to the crown of his head and go "Tweet, tweet." Say, what a bunch of nuts. I think that it was a booby hatch and they call it a college. Well I had hardly got over the shock of being "Tweet Tweeted" when I hear a lot of singing and what do I see but a bunch of lads all tied together and looking rather annoyed. Of course there were some of the boys that were more sensible and did not do all that foolish stuff I think they were called Sophomores. But on the whole they are all crazy and need a waking up."
